Carnegie Works at Homestead Held by Troops.

Five Thousand Soldiers Go Into Camp in the Meadow.

THE CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE HEAR THE WITNESSES.

Fight is Not the Hambling of a Revolution—Shall Capital Rule?

WILKESBAHE, Pa., July 13.—Powderly, just back from Omaha, in an interview, severely criticizes Gov. Pattison, for sending troops to Homestead. He says this is not exactly a Knights of Labor fight, but if called on he will proceed at once to Homestead. "This fight," said Powderly, "is not the rumbling of a coming revolution, that is to say whether Wall street shall or shall not control the country. It is the fight of labor, and the labor organizations of the country should stand firmly at the back of these men who are fighting at Homestead. It must be a protracted struggle. The farmers of the country alone will furnish provision enough to keep these men for ten years, if necessary. It is not the Knights of Labor, and through the Knights with organized labor in general."

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 13.—The House committee appointed to investigate the present labor troubles and outbreak at Homestead, arrived in this city Tuesday morning, and went directly to the Monongahela house, Chairman Oates, said that it was the committee's desire to get down to work tonight, and that it was not possible how deep the investigation would go, and hoped to conduct the matter with in one day if possible. He said they did not expect to summon more than twelve witnesses on each side; possibly not more than twelve in all. The committee said that they would not say to Washington, Mr. H. C. Prick will be the first witness called.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 13.—There were few people at the station when the train bearing the troops arrived Tuesday morning. They were nearly all soldiers, and the troops were nearly all soldiers. The soldiers were nearly all soldiers, and the troops were nearly all soldiers. The soldiers were nearly all soldiers, and the troops were nearly all soldiers.

The camp of the national guard is on a plateau at the top of the hill directly south of the Carnegie mill property and the City Farm mills, and overlooks not only the city of Homestead, but the surrounding country.

This camp is about 300 yards distant from the Carnegie mills, which includes the mills and the city and City Farm. Guards are stationed along Eighth avenue, upon which street the Carnegie mills are located. A number of soldiers were stationed along the railroad up the steep hill to their camp. When the different regiments had taken up their positions, the men threw themselves upon the ground, and stretching their rubber blankets from the bayonets of four stacked muskets made a screen from the rays of the sun.

A LANDSLIDE. An Over-Hanging Mountain Buries a Town in Saving Beneath Debris. PARIS, July 13.—A terrible accident has occurred at St. Germain Les Bains, in Paris, resulting in the death of at least thirty persons. A heavy landslide occurred in the mountains that almost overhung the village, and without a moment's warning a number of houses were buried beneath immense masses of earth and rock. Already thirty dead have been taken out of the ruins. A number of persons who had been badly injured were rescued while some were still alive. Already thirty dead have been taken out of the ruins. A number of persons who had been badly injured were rescued while some were still alive.

Calling Out the Militia Expensive. PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 13.—The Homestead strike has cost the Pennsylvania National Guard a great deal of money. The state's good round sum of money. The national guard of Pennsylvania is called out, and it is estimated that 8,000 have responded to the governor's call. Of these 600 are commissioned officers. It will cost the state about $2,000 per day until the troops are recalled. This estimate is based on cost of annual encampment of state militia.

Student Drowned in the Ohio. MARIETTA, Ohio, July 13.—Shufeldt, a student of Marietta college, was drowned Monday evening while bathing in the Ohio at Kerr's Island, about 10 miles from Marietta. Young Shufeldt's home was in Washington, D. C., where his father is the taxidermist for the Smithsonian Institution.

Bristol, Tenn., July 13.—John M. Young, of Grayson, Va., has been sentenced to hang for the murder of his son, John M. Young. The execution will take place October 7.
